

Retail Intelligence — Executive Summary

20-Day Data Analytics Bootcamp | Project 1 | Day 4

Business Question 1: Which category and region gives the highest revenue?

Electronics is the leading product category with AED 40,794,794 in revenue. Dubai is the leading region with AED 41,044,846 in revenue -- more than double the next closest region.

Business Question 2: How many customers are at risk of leaving?

1,081 customers (21.62% of the base) fall into the 'At Risk' RFM segment, and a further 920 (18.4%) are already 'Lost'. Combined, close to 40% of the customer base needs a retention push, even though they still represent a meaningful share of historical revenue.

Business Question 3: Did promotions help increase sales?

Yes, on a per-transaction basis. Promotional transactions carry a 10.4% higher average sale value (AED 121.88) than full-price transactions (AED 110.42), even though they represent a minority (32%) of total transactions.

Key Metrics

- Total revenue (Jan 2021 - Oct 2025): AED 73,214,931
- 2024 full-year growth: 5.2% YoY
- Repeat purchase rate: 100.0%
- Champions segment: 539 customers driving 34.62% of revenue

Recommendations

1. Protect Dubai Electronics as the core revenue engine, while testing category-mix promotions in Abu Dhabi and Sharjah to close the regional gap.
2. Launch a win-back campaign targeted at the 'At Risk' / 'Lost' customers before they fully churn -- they still represent a meaningful share of historical revenue.
3. Expand promotions selectively: they lift average order value, so pair them with frequently co-purchased products to raise basket size further.
